

BIG BEN AND BIGGER PROBLEMS: CLEMENT ATTLEE'S CABINET, 1945

Clement Attlee won the prime ministry and ascended to power in 1945 amidst the end of the Second World War. Britain was plagued by economic problems, damaged infrastructure from Nazi bombings, and a complete lack of a social safety net for their vulnerable citizens. In this committee, you will guide Clement Attlee through his attempts to revamp the failing British economy, reconstruct Britain's infrastructure, and build a welfare state. We will begin the conference by creating and implementing a plan to bring jobs to Britain and diversify imports and exports. After the crisis has been averted, we will come to a consensus for how to move forward: how does one provide for the poor and hungry? Which parts of Britain's infrastructure need to be replaced? How should Attlee try to secure a chance at re-election? As the committee comes to end, we will come to an election where delegates will compete against one another for a chance to gain power within Britain. Be ready to face a struggling British population, extreme economic tensions, and an election amongst your fellow delegates!
