

WASTED IN THE WINDY CITY: AL CAPONE, THE CHICAGO OUTFIT, AND PROHIBITION IN CHICAGO, 1926

Moonshine, mobs, and mass corruption! The year is 1926, Prohibition is in full swing, and prospects have never been better for any less-than-moral citizen looking to make their fortune in Chicago. This joint crisis committee will pit Al Capone and his mob, the Chicago Outfit, against the Northside Gang as they vie for control of the city of Chicago. In this section of the committee, Al Capone presides over a meeting of the Chicago Outfit's members and the city officials who work closely with them. The committee begins in 1926 with the famed rivalry between the Chicago Outfit and Northside Gang, and it will follow the Chicago Outfit's political maneuvering and tensions with the Northside Gang as the roaring 20s progresses into Black Thursday and the Great Depression. Gangsters, politicians, and policemen will be challenged to work within the Chicago Outfit and Chicago's famously-corrupt political scene to gain power for their mob and themselves. Or, they can work across the backroom to create alliances to rule the entire city when the inevitable confrontation between the Chicago Outfit and Northside Gang occurs. Will you make your fortune in the Windy City, or will you end up wasted?
